Last week you recording the weather each day using a weather chart.

You are now going to use that chart and become a weather reporter! They are called 'meteorologists.' They are weather scientists!

Have you seen someone on the news telling us what the weather will be like?

Find out more in the video below:

Let's watch a video where some children have had a go at becoming meteorologists or weather reporters. Let's see if they can give us some ideas on what to say!

Task:

Have a go at becoming a meteorologist. When you do, explain what the weather will be like for the week. You might want to create a poster to help you to explain. What symbols will you use for:

- Wind
- Rain
- Snow
- Sunshine
- Clouds

Challenge: If you have access to an outside thermometer, please include what the temperature is for today. You can also use a phone or computer to find out today's temperature.
